

Fine Believes By-Pass Will Be Delayed By Turnpike

Governor Is Receptive To Delegation

Traffic by-pass is the "modern way" to relieve congestion Gov. John S. Fine told Monroe County businessmen and borough officials in Harrisburg yesterday. The statement came during a 20-minute session in the governor's office.

Fine, at close of the meeting, said he did not think the highway department would "do anything about Ninth and Main St. or any thru-way" until it can be determined if the new turnpike construction relieves the traffic situation.

The delegation of five men was present to:

One—protest the "intolerable" traffic situation in the Stroudsburg area.

Two—seek a "re-examination" of the traffic situation there by "proper authorities."

Three—declare against Highways Secretary E. L. Schmidt's "favored plan" for funneling all Route 209 and Route 611 traffic through Ninth and Main Sts., Stroudsburg.

Four—present an alternate plan for a thru-way which has won the backing of powerful Monroe, civic, club and governmental organizations, and which State Highway engineers themselves have said is "practical and would solve the problem."

The meeting with Gov. Fine was arranged by Rep. John Shotwell who introduced the Monroe men and was present throughout the session.

Present were Edward C. Hess, representing Stroudsburg Borough, and engineer of the Stroudsburgs and of Monroe County; Elton P. Hall, representing East Stroudsburg Borough Council; Dale H. Learn of Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce; R. LeRoy Dengler, Pocono Mountains Motor Club; Jack Kerlin, Stroudsburg Businessmen's Association; Jack Shinn signed the petition to the governor as representing the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau but was unable to be present at the Harrisburg meeting because of the Hotel Show and Resort Clinic in Monroe County.

Dengler began the meeting after the introductions by explaining the purpose of the visit was to discuss the traffic congestion in Stroudsburg. Dengler said it had been agreed that Kerlin would be the spokesman.

The five-page petition was read to the governor. It stressed the urgency of immediate steps to relieve the traffic problem and the need for an expressway to allow for free passage for vacationers, visitors and commercial traffic utilizing the new highway network, and set out the four chief points.

Fine told the group he knew a serious traffic problem existed in Stroudsburg, but said he believed the Northeast Turnpike Extension plus the proposed spur running east from the extension to Delaware Water Gap would do much to relieve the congestion.

The Monroe men said they could not agree with the governor's expectation, but thought instead that the new highway additions would serve to increase the traffic load.

Japan Says Race Horses Radioactive

Tokyo (AP)—Now they're saying the race horses are radioactive. Japanese sleuths say that's what they found when 30 thoroughbreds arrived here from New Zealand. The ship carrying the horses passed with 850 miles of the Marshall Islands where the United States has been testing hydrogen explosives.

Gadgeteering detectives said the horses made their Geiger counters click—but so do luminous wrist watches.

Doctors say the horses are okay and ready to run.

Harrisburg (AP)—Pennsylvania's second successive week of above normal temperatures plus two days of rain stimulated growth on farms of the state during the last seven days.

Tons Of New Supplies Go To Defenders Of French Troops At Dien Bien Phu

Hanoi, Indochina (AP)—American-supplied planes dropped tons of food and war material to the defenders of Dien Bien Phu yesterday.

Braving rebel anti-aircraft fire, American civilian pilots swooped in low in Dakotas and flying boxcars to parachute ammunition, food and war material of all types into the heart-shaped area still held by the French Union troops.

Thousands of French, Viet Nam and foreign legion troops were dug in to hold against a massive new assault. They chalked off 151 days of desperate defense yesterday.

French military sources said that by giving up another hard-to-defend position in the northwest corner of the fortress they had made the besieged bastion more compact for defense.

The garrison depends on a thin aerial life line for all supplies and reinforcements, even firewood and timber, the latter used for trenches and bunkers.

Only its drinking water is obtained at the fort, from the Youm River which flows through the heart of the plain.

In the hills and jungles and in the forward foxholes and trenches around Dien Bien Phu were tens of thousands of attackers.

McCarthy Says Hensel Behind Army's Blast

Washington (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) charged yesterday an Army report blasting him and his chief aides was instigated by a high Pentagon official trying to dodge investigation "for misconduct and possibly for law violations."

The official, Asst. Secretary of Defense H. Struve Hensel, retorted: "Bare-faced lies."

McCarthy hurled the accusation as investigating senators reached final agreement on "ground rules" for public, televised hearings opening Thursday in McCarthy's bitter row with Army officials.

The gist of the agreement:

McCarthy will step off the Senate investigations subcommittee during the hearings. Sen. Dwyer (R-Iowa) will sit in for him. But McCarthy and his Army antagonists will have—as McCarthy has insisted all along—the right to cross-examine witnesses.

While this agreement was being hammered out, McCarthy and aides Roy M. Cohn and Francis Carr filed a "bill of particulars" declaring the Army's original charges against them were put out under the "influence and guidance" of Hensel in an effort to block an investigation of "serious charges" against himself.

The McCarthy statement said the investigations subcommittee has established Hensel made at least $56,526 in three World War II years from a private ship supply firm operating with government priorities while he was a high-ranking Navy official.

Declaring McCarthy is "cornered" and resorting to "cowardly irresponsibility," Hensel threatened to sue him if the senator repeated the charge without the protection of senatorial immunity.

Two Headed Child Dies

Washington, Ind. (AP)—The two-headed child of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hartley, died last yesterday of a respiratory difficulty.

The child had been taken to the Davies County Hospital from the Hartley home in nearby Petersburg by their family physician an hour before he died.

The hospital said both heads of the child were blue when it was admitted, and that the two heads died simultaneously.

The baby was born Dec. 12.

The Hartleys had named the two heads Donald Ray and Daniel Kaye. Less than a month ago the child was taken to the James Whitcomb Riley Hospital for Children in Indianapolis with pneumonia in the left head and chest.

He was released about two weeks ago and returned to the family home in Petersburg.

The baby weighed 10 pounds eight ounces at birth. It was kept in a hospital for five weeks and then was taken home. Doctors said at the time it was functioning normally and did not need hospital care.

It had two heads, two sets of shoulders, four arms, three lumps, two hearts and two stomachs. However, it was able to take food through both mouths. Its two spinal cords joined at about the waistline.

Hartley, 47, and his wife, 27, have three normal older children, all girls.

Accused Judge Slayer Gets More Counsel

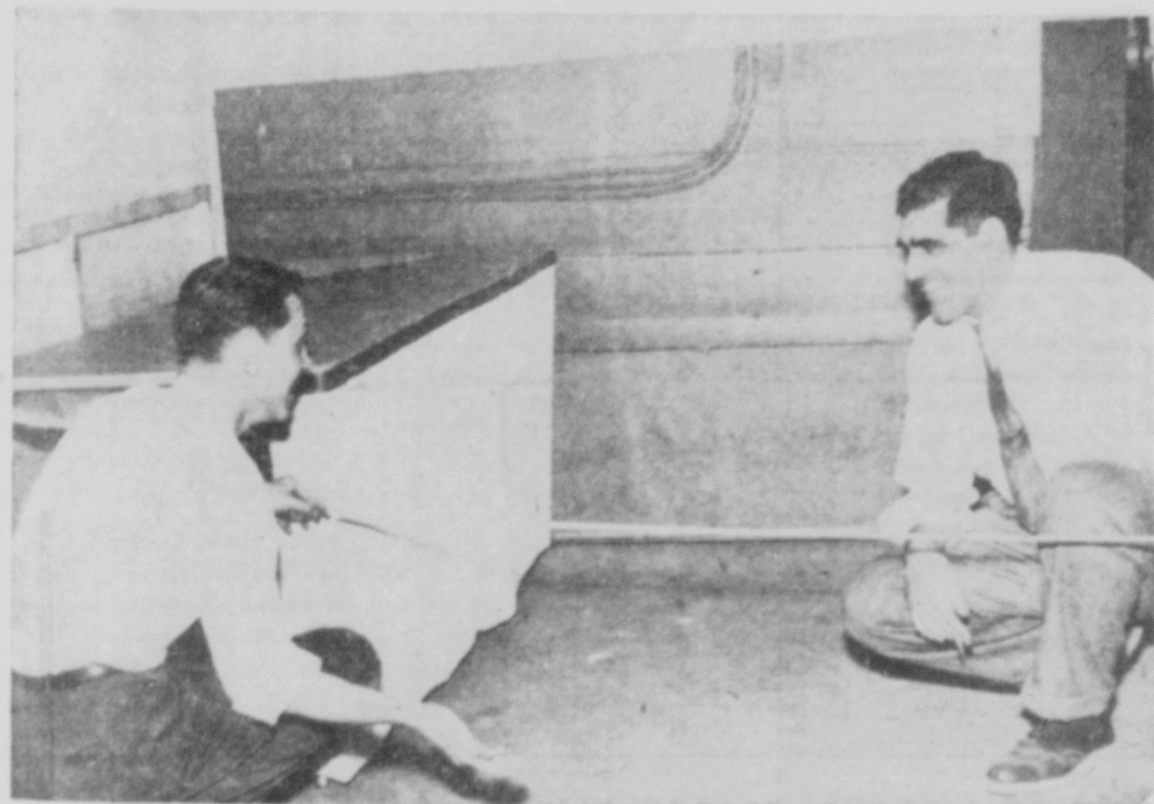

Connellsville, Pa. (AP)—Norman Moon, charged with shooting to death Judge Allison D. Wade in a Warren County courtroom, will have as his assistant defense counsel, Atty. Thomas A. Waggoner, of Uniontown. Waggoner is a former Fayette County assistant district attorney.

Samuel D. Braemer, who will serve as Moon's chief defense counsel, said the trial will start May 10 in Warren County courthouse.

The 26-year-old Connellsville construction worker is charged with fatally shooting Judge Wade Jan. 13 while the jurist was questioning him for non-support of his wife.

Pittsburgh (AP)—Joseph A. Schmitt, 20 years chief filing clerk for the Pittsburgh Registration Commission, said yesterday he quit his job because of "high pressure political tactics."

CAUGHT IN A SQUEEZE for space are officials running the annual hotel show today and tomorrow at the Penn-Stroud garage. Last-minute attempts were being made yesterday to figure out new ways to get added booths into the allotted space. Here Harold Swensen, secretary of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau and Guy Nicolais, also with the bureau, use a tape measure to try to squeeze another booth into a tight space. The show will be sparked by tonight's banquet of the Northeastern Pennsylvania Restaurant Owners Association, co-sponsor with the PMVB of the hotel show. Other photo on page 16.

Seren Men Killed In Plane Crash

Burbank, Calif. (AP)—Seven men were killed yesterday when an Air Force flying box car crashed into fog-shrouded Mission Peak in the Santa Susana Mountains.

The big twin-engine C119 from Charleston, S. C. Air Force Base smashed head-on into the peak only 70 feet below the 2,771-foot crest. The plane was making an instrument approach to Lockheed Air terminal while on a routine training flight.

Many persons living in the foothills heard the impact but searchers groped through the fog nearly an hour before flaming wreckage was spotted.

The bodies, at least one of them badly burned, were in or near the wreckage. Flames ignited surrounding brush, hampering firemen who sought to approach the plane. The plane burned for several hours.

Five of those aboard were crewmen and two were passengers.

The crash occurred 14 miles northwest of here shortly after the plane had descended into the fog blanket at 2,900 feet.

Army Submits Particulars Against GI

Washington (AP)—The Army yesterday submitted a bill of particulars at the court-martial of Cpl. Edward S. Dickinson listing more than a score of one-time fellow Korean prisoners of war who allegedly complained that Dickinson appeared to follow the Chinese Communist line.

Dickinson's shy, blonde wife, Lottie, listened without apparent emotion as the Army for the first time cited the broad base of its charges against Dickinson. The defense had demanded such a bill.

Defense counsel Guy Emery created a surprise by agreeing to accept the bill of particulars without delay. He had been expected to ask for time to investigate the specific allegations.

However, Emery fought tenaciously to defend his 23-year-old client and moved successfully on several occasions to have the testimony of prosecution witnesses stricken from the record.

Roberts Loses New Trial Plea

Wilkes-Barre, Pa. (AP)—Luzerne County Court yesterday turned down a request for a new trial for Jonah Roberts, 46, Edwardsville textile factory worker convicted of slaying of his wife, Mary, June 10, 1952.

In a 62-page opinion, the five-member court ruled that the error of the trial "contained no error that calls for the granting of a new trial."

Schmidt "Hopeful"

Erie, Pa. (AP)—E. L. Schmidt, state highways secretary, said yesterday his department is hopeful that temporary repairs will be completed by Memorial Day to permit visitors to use all roads on Presque Isle peninsula.

Pro-McCarthy Thomas Is Defeated In New Jersey

Newark, N. J. (AP)—J. Parnell Thomas, who tried to ride back to Congress on a pro-McCarthy platform, yesterday was overwhelmingly defeated in a Republican primary election in New Jersey's 7th District.

Rep. William B. Widnall, the incumbent, easily defeated Thomas, who was jailed in 1949 for payroll padding and later pardoned by President Truman. Thomas had campaigned as a "1,000 per cent" supporter of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Widnall, who practically ignored Thomas' reference to McCarthy during the campaign, led 21,532 to 2,777 in unofficial returns from 163 of 264 districts.

Thomas had gained national prominence as chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, a post he earned during his seven terms in Congress.

The Thomas-Widnall contest highlighted an otherwise listless primary election in the state.

There were seven other fights in the state's 14 congressional districts, plus controversial gambling referenda.

The other two incumbents, who faced opposition, also won re-election. They were Reps. Frank C. Osmer (R) in the 9th District and Alfred D. Sieminski (D) in the 13th District.

Every municipality in the state held a special election on whether to permit the playing of bingo and raffles. Both had been legalized in last November's general election and today's voting was to determine whether the games could be played locally.

Both bingo and raffles appeared to win so much support that the games will become commonplace. The only other legal gambling in the state up to now was pari-mutuel betting at three race tracks and a trotting track.

Thomas lost his home town of Annandale to Widnall, 347 to 106.

Thomas' wife, Amelia, was taken to a hospital suffering from an overdose of tablets, apparently sleeping pills, a few hours before the voting began.

Lack of a statewide contest for the Senate in either party was a contributing factor to the disinterest in the primary election.

Bear Death Case Before Court

Quebec (AP)—Two defense motions were presented yesterday in Court of Queen's Bench on behalf of Wilbert Coffin, 43-year-old prospector charged with murder in the slaying of three bear hunters from Pennsylvania.

Both motions were taken under consideration by Justice Wilfrid Edge. One motion asked for bail, the other for details concerning the case.

Circulations Are Rising

New York (AP)—Publishers reported yesterday that newspaper circulations were rising despite competition from television for the reader's time.

A show of hands at a panel discussion at the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. annual convention indicated that a ratio of three newspapers out of four gained circulation during the last six months.

Bribe Charges, Corruption Are Aired

By Lee Garrett

Washington (AP)—Charges of bribe-seeking and possible corruption in getting FHA loan insurance were aired yesterday amid testimony that 1,149 apartment builders reaped more than 65 million dollars in quick profits from their operations.

No names were mentioned in testimony at twin hearings by the Senate Banking Committee and the Joint Committee on Reduction of Non-Essential Federal Expenditures headed by Sen. Byrd (D-Va.).

Albert M. Cole, head of the Housing and Home Finance Agency told the Banking Committee headed by Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) that one FHA official was permitted to resign while investigators were looking into reports he had been "gambling in large amounts" and "demanding money from people for the purpose of securing commitments from the FHA."

Before the Byrd group, Internal Revenue Commissioner T. Coleman Andrews said there was one situation in which "we think there was corruption in appraising" the cost of a project to get an FHA loan guarantee. He gave no details.

Andrews also testified about the 65 million dollar profit which he said came "almost entirely from the difference between amounts borrowed and amounts spent" on the 1,149 projects. The loans totaled $1,219,674,000, he said.

The Revenue Service is investigating 1,819 such cases, he said, but he presented a statistical summary only for the smaller number.

Byrd mentioned one project, Glen Oaks Village in Queens County, N. Y., and said loans on it totaled 24 millions although it was built for 20 millions. Andrews said not all the loans on that project were FHA-insured, however. He said there appeared to be no fraud in that case, either civil or criminal, because the builders had fully disclosed their income in tax returns.

Byrd said he understood rents in the Glen Oaks project were "15, or 20 or 25 per cent higher" because of the size of the loan. He said his committee has been flooded with letters from renters in government-insured projects complaining that their rents had been increased.

He said one of the cases reported without name by Andrews involved a builder who got a 140 per cent loan guarantee, compared with his actual costs.

Cole told the Banking Committee he would recommend within a week ways of closing loopholes to "tighten up the organization, the programs and the procedures" of housing legislation.

Capehart asked the recommendations to permit the committee to proceed with work on a general housing bill now before it. Some have expressed fear that the current housing probe might interfere with passage of the new housing program asked by President Eisenhower.

In another development the Senate Rules Committee voted to give the Capehart group only $150,000 of the $250,000 it had asked for the probe, but said more money could be asked later if it is needed. Approval by the full Senate is approved before the money is made available.

State Capitol Buses Halted By Strikers

Harrisburg (AP)—A strike over higher wages by 250 drivers and mechanics yesterday left an estimated 50,000 Harrisburg area bus riders without public transportation.

Employees of Harrisburg Railways Co. walked out at 2 a.m. after four and one-half months of unsuccessful negotiations to replace a contract that expired Jan. 31. The move cleared the Capitol City's streets of Harrisburg Co. buses and added thousands of cars to the already heavy downtown traffic.

Local 1436, Amalgamated Assn. of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America (AFL) is seeking a 22-cent-an-hour wage increase plus other benefits.

The company once proposed a 5-cent raise above the $1.50 to $1.70 Harrisburg employees made under the old contract but the union rejected that plan.

Portland Woman Dies In Accident

Portland—Word was received here yesterday of the death in an auto accident in Chile of Dr. David Edwards' daughter, Mrs. William L. Robinson.

Dr. Edwards, pastor of Presbyterian Church of Portland and of Mount Bethel, received a wire from two other daughters, Miss Melba Edwards and Mrs. Orin McClain, Winston Salem, N. C.

They had known of the accident since last Wednesday, but had wished to spare their parents at least until after Easter.

Mrs. Robinson was in the car with her husband and two eldest boys. The car went out of control and overturned, according to the report. Mrs. Robinson was killed; her husband was injured; the boys escaped unhurt. The third child, an infant, was not along.

Dr. Edwards spent 30 years in Chile as a missionary. Mrs. Robinson was raised there, and met her husband there. The Robinsons were in the U. S. for a visit in 1950 and 1951, when the two boys attended school in Portland.

The husband is a textile expert.

Weak-Willed Killed Partner Beats Chair

New York (AP)—Dennis Wepman, weak-willed partner in a bizarre double murder, beat the electric chair yesterday, although he had predicted that it would get him.

Smiling and laughing, he pleaded guilty to a second degree murder charge in the champagne cocktail slayings last Aug. 19 of Dr. and Mrs. William Fraden of the Bronx.

Wepman's trial was about to begin in Bronx County Court when he entered his plea before Judge Eugene G. Schulz. He will be sentenced May 19. The maximum penalty is life in prison.

The 20-year-old Wepman shouted joyfully at the time of his arrest last December:

"We're going to the chair."

However, the state's first degree murder case against him more or less collapsed when the actual slayer, Harlow Fraden, was found insane and sent to an asylum last February. Wepman had been adjudged sane.

Red Hot Issue

Washington (AP)—A congressman's life isn't all Indochina, housing scandals or Sen. McCarthy's fight with Army officials. Yesterday for example, legislators were handed an issue that is red hot in the nation's capital: Should Washington residents be permitted to have homes facing on alleys?

Largest Mass X-Ray Disease Detection Campaign Is Readied

House To House Canvassers To Make Contacts

A county-wide X-ray program to detect chest diseases will be conducted during the first two weeks in May.

The program is being sponsored by the Monroe County Medical Society. Taking part in it are three major health groups: The Tuberculosis and Health Society, The Heart Fund and the county unit of the American Cancer Society.

It is the largest mass disease detection campaign ever undertaken in this area. Doctors and others associated with the drive hope to contact every home in Monroe county and provide X-rays for all county residents.

No charge will be made for the X-rays. The program is "completely free" to all county residents.

The X-raying program will be conducted by the Bureau of Tuberculosis Control, Pennsylvania Department of Health.

X-rays taken during the county drive will be made on 70-millimeter film. This type of chest plate is smaller than that made under regular diagnostic conditions by the General Hospital or by physicians.

Hospital X-rays are approximately 14 by 17 inches for chest plates. The larger plate makes it possible for a doctor to make a more complete diagnosis of illnesses present in the person's chest.

From the smaller chest plate no complete diagnosis can be made. What the 70-millimeter film does provide is a thorough and adequate "screening" process to find possible cases of tuberculosis, cancer or heart disease.

From this preliminary diagnosis—if sufficient cause is shown—the family physician will be able to advise on possible future action.

In the case of suspected tuberculous conditions, the Monroe County Tuberculosis and Health Society will pay for further re-X-raying to determine fully whether TB does exist.

Reports on all X-rays taken during the drive will be forwarded to the family physician, NOT THE INDIVIDUAL.

To carry on the extensive county-wide campaign a house-to-house canvass will be conducted. In this contact system, volunteer workers will visit each home in Monroe county.

During this visit the purpose of the X-ray drive will be explained. Workers will also leave literature further explaining the drive at the home. Included in this explanatory hand-out will be brochures from all three organizations taking part.

Also in the literature will be a personal registration slip. This slip is to be kept by the resident, filled out and brought with him to the X-ray center he chooses on the day he has his X-ray taken.

A complete schedule listing all stops being made by the mobile X-ray unit between May 3 and May 15 will also be left in the home.

This schedule, according to officials in charge of the drive, has been so arranged that every county area will be touched. No long driving distances will be necessary.

Volunteer workers who will serve as the canvassers are now receiving the literature and residential sheets for their areas. The canvass will be completed during the last two weeks in April.

Red Cross Blood Drive Is Far Short Of April Quota

Monroe County's Bloodmobile visit fell far short of its goal yesterday. Only slightly more than half the 126-pint quota was collected.

According to American Red Cross officials county residents donated only 64 pints when the mobile unit stopped at the Elks Club between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. yesterday.

Officials were at a loss to explain the shortage of donors. One spokesman expressed a belief that the weather may have had something to do with it.

Whatever the reason, the "regular donors" from Monroe industries carried the day.

According to Bloodmobile collection figures the following industries sent employees:

Ronson, 15; Tru-Matic, 10; Line Material, 9; Patterson-Kelley, 5; International Boiler Works, Shanley's Cigar Co., Lehigh Valley Dairy, Buck Hill Falls and Avlon's, each sent one donor.

The Waring Enterprises offices in Delaware Water Gap were also credited with two donors.

Total number of pints donated by industrial or business employees was 46. Only 18 additional pints were collected during the visit. Of these donors, eight were "walk-ins"—persons who appeared during the stop without having signed pledge cards previously.

Physicians present during the visit were Dr. Thomas Williams, Gilbert, and Dr. Claus Jordan, Stroudsburg.

The poor showing during yesterday's visit means that Monroe County will begin the May period with a deficit of 62 pints. Deficits have occurred repeatedly since the beginning of this year and the last three months of 1953.

Slate Quarry Oil Storage Plan Started

Wind Gap — In three months Esso Standard Oil Company's new "gunna pig," the abandoned slate quarry here, will be ready to accept three million barrels of heating oil to provide thousands of Eastern United States homes with fuel.

This announcement yesterday by Stanley G. Ways, Esso engineer, came as crews continued to ready the old Alpha quarry of the Colonial Slate Co.

Started in mid-March, the huge project is Esso's initial attempt at underground fuel oil storage. The company has options on 11 slate pits in this Slate Belt region but is utilizing only this one to test their project. This first "test" is expected to cost $1 million.

Water will play an important role in the future development of the oil storage supply. Ways predicted. Current plans call for extending a line from the Acme quarry, another abandoned pit just southeast of here. This line will bring the water supply from Acme's filled area. Underground springs also will provide the water needed as a base for the storage.

This is the first American trial of such a vast project. The same principle has been applied before in Sweden.

Among the contracting firms already on site and working daily are J. H. Deers, Inc. of Richmond, near Bangor; J. Bazley Co., pumping contractor; Hammond Iron Works of Warren, Pa. and Walter Kilde Construction Inc., of New York City.

Ways said pumping continues daily and to date the water line has been dropped 51 feet. Alpha quarry is 270 feet deep, 350 feet wide and 250 feet long. It is located in the southeastern section of this community.

If all 11 quarries are converted, enough fuel oil can be stored here to heat 325,000 average homes for one season, a company spokesman declared at the outset of planning.

Pontoon-type roofs will float on top of the oil to provide protection from the elements. Material for this major undertaking already is on the property.

Esso expects to encompass the entire area with a large fence and will employ about five men for this one quarry to handle all operations after construction is finished.

A small building used formerly as headquarters for Colonial Slate Co. has been converted into office space for Esso's officials.

Heavy machinery is bulldozing slate slag, skimming the quarry pit surface to provide more working area once the fuel storage begins operating.

A new entrance road also is being built and a pumping station will be erected shortly.

Also slated for construction near the pit is a 5,000-barrel tank which will be used to refine oil taken from the surface.

Large Number Worship At Bartonville

Bartonville—A larger number of parishioners attended worship services Sunday during which the Sacrament of Holy Communion was administered in St. John's Lutheran Church.

An Easter message was given by pastor, John B. Bergstresser. Seasonal music was played by Mrs. Floyd Cyphers, organist, Mrs. Eleanor Beecher sang a solo "Easter Morn."

Bulletins for the service were sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Haviland Heller. Altar bouquets of snapdragons, tulips and iris were presented by the sons and daughters of the late Thomas and Mary A. Shiffer in memory of their parents. Ushers were Harold Sprague and Claude Cyphers.

Borough Officials Set Up Spring Cleaning Campaign Throughout Stroudsburgs

Boroughs of East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg are due for a real Spring cleaning next week.

Both Burgess Jesse Flory of East Stroudsburg and Hal H. Harris of Stroudsburg have declared April 29, 30 and May 1 as "Paint-up-Clean-up-Fix-up Week."

Residents are being advised of free disposal service offered by both boroughs. All rubbish and trash collected from cellars, attics and yards is to be placed at the curb in front of homes on the regular pickup dates. Borough trucks will pick up the refuse and dispose of it. No limit has been placed on the quality, but officials have asked cooperation of residents in placing trash in boxes or containers.

Officials also are urging the entire population to join in this three-day program to remove all eyesores which detract from the beauty of the home, streets and, in general, the community.

They also advise residents to protect homes with a coat of paint which not only will preserve the building, but improve the appearance.

Burgess Flory and Harris, in a proclamation issued last night, called on all borough departments, commercial organizations, civic clubs, schools, churches, boys' and girls' clubs and other associations, and the populace in general, to take an active part in the campaign to insure community success.

They both point out that lives and property of local people are endangered by fire caused by cluttered conditions in homes, factories, alleys and streets.

Bangor Fire Damage Slight

Bangor—Two fires were reported here yesterday.

The first one, yesterday morning, at 315 N. Main St., caused slight damage to a utilities building. Owner is Stanley Butler, local contractor. The building is to the rear of his residence.

Fire was confined to the wooden roof of the concrete-block building. Fire company officials said exact cause of the fire had not been determined last night.

At 3:15 p.m. a false alarm was turned in by workmen doing repairs at Town Hall. The alarm was accidentally tripped while repairs were being made.

Water Gap Church Adds New Members

Delaware Water Gap—During the morning Sunday service in the Presbyterian Church here certificates of membership were received from Rev. Luther Markin by the Misses Eleanor Kulp, Camille Buzzard, Sandra Carlton and Elizabeth Redzig, who had been received by the elders at a meeting the week before.

The junior choir of seven voices and the senior choir of 14 voices had each a special anthem and combined to sing an anthem. Ushers were Robert Redzig, Marshall Metzgar, Dale Newhart and James Howard.

Apply For License
Two couples applied for marriage licenses yesterday at the Courthouse. They were Robert F. Coston and Joyce L. Banta, Stroudsburg RD2; and Neil A. Bruck, East Stroudsburg RD3, and Bertha Lang, Belvidere.

Circling The Real Problem

Pocono Mountains Automobile Club's annual meeting recommendations for highway improvements in the Poconos were a curious mixture of constructiveness and "traffic circles."

On the constructive side came the proposal for a new inter-borough bridge—nothing new—but still very important and a sorely needed addition to relieve the dangerous travel-choke between the Stroudsburgs.

Elimination of the Tinkertown Grade crossing—another old one—but freshened by reason of the heavy travel which is bound to flow off the new Delaware Water Gap bridge towards East Stroudsburg and via 402 to the Eastern Poconos region.

Elimination of concrete dividers on Rt. 611 below the Pocono underpass, widening of roads here and there are all sound. But let us hasten to the "traffic circles."

The point of this recommendation is a little too nebulous. "Traffic circles" are confusing, expensive installations, but serve a sound purpose on major highways, especially those of four lanes.

What purpose they would serve, commensurate with their cost, at Snyder'sville, Saylorsburg, Mt. Pocono, Bartonsville, Eagle Valley Corners, Brodheadsville and Marshalls Creek intersections, is something requiring analytical study.

The recommendations apparently did a "traffic circle" completely around the most pressing highway requirement in the Poconos.

They said nothing about the urgency of an adequate express—or thru-way for that 70 per cent of motor vehicle travel which by State Highway origin and destination survey has no business and does not want to suffer the intolerable delay in Stroudsburg.

Some brave soul brought up the "Stroudsburg by-pass" in a question to District Engineer R. E. Boyer. His reply, of course, was that Highway Secretary Ed Schmidt thinks he should move the mess at 7th and Main Sts. two blocks west to Ninth and Main Sts.

Mr. Boyer, naturally, could say little. He works for a living like a lot of the rest of us do, but under much more authoritative circumstances.

Our old friend C. H. "Buck" Buckius, chief engineer of the highway department—scheduled as chief speaker—was strangely absent. We can't blame him too much because he'd probably have given the same answer as Boyer on the Stroudsburg by-pass.

What we are puzzled about is this traffic circling business around the most important highway problem in the county—the need for an adequate thru-way around Stroudsburg.

There seems to be one effective way left to kill this wholly impossible idea about a Ninth St. by-pass so firmly fixed in Ed Schmidt's mind.

That's a carefully organized and persistent voter education campaign this year. That old axiom—"if the boys don't listen, vote 'em out"—is the obvious answer.

Planning For Guests

The fifth annual Pocono Mountains Hotel Show opening today in the Penn-Stroud garage center is something more than an exhibit of foodstuffs and wares used in hotel operation.

Coupled with the event are three meetings—all designed to review and refresh the resort industry and its allied business with the fact that the Pocono Mountains have 80 per cent of the resort operations of Pennsylvania within their boundaries.

Meeting of the Monroe County Retail Liquor Dealers' Association last night, the Northeastern Pennsylvania Restaurant Association tonight, and the annual meeting of Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau tomorrow night deal with the same general theme—improved service, renewed emphasis on ethical standards, and planning which will give the Pocono mountain guest full value for every dollar spent.

Naturally, the hotel show will attract a major attendance of people "in the trade" and their guests. That is certain because of the new central location, excellent facilities and the fact 102 purveyors have set up exceptional displays.

But the real value is found in another side of the three organization meeting where the welfare of the resort guest and tourist receives top consideration.

The TV Divorce

A woman has been granted a divorce on the grounds her husband neglected her for the TV programs, even watching them at the dinner table.

This may be only the beginning of a new item has stirred up so many households. If the TV sets get legal classification with cruelty, incompatibility, unfaithfulness, etc., millions of homes will be broken up. We report a typical divorce action.

Q—You say your husband ignored you for video. When did you first notice this switch of affections?

A—I got suspicious when he left the scrabble game for a night baseball contest. When he began pushing me off his lap to see the McGuire sisters I knew the honeymoon was over.

Q—Did you make any effort to regain his affections?

A—I came to breakfast in a Yankee baseball suit, mastered the ballet, learned ventriloquism and even introduced a troupe of trained dogs into our home, but still couldn't compete with the TV producers.

Q—Did you tell him TV was busting up your home?

A—I got on my knees and pleaded, "Look, darling, we loved each other dearly until TV entered our lives. Now our happiness has been killed and I am leaving you forever."

Q—What did he say?

A—I'll give you his exact words. He said, "Shuddup! The bases are loaded and it's a tie game. Can't you see I've no time for trivial issues?"

Q—Did you make any further arguments?

A—Yes, I told him that in the marriage ceremony he had promised to take me, not channels 4 and 11, as his lawfully wedded wife and that I was pledged to nourish him in sickness and health not in sickness and station breaks. He replied, "Scram! You're killing Duran's jokes."

Q—Have you any children?

A—Yes, but TV has got them, too. They think they belong to Howdy Dood.

Q—Any other members of your household?

A—We had a cook and maid but they left when we wouldn't buy them their own TV sets. My mother lived with us, but she became a studio quiz-show addict and got lost somewhere between Breenk the Bank and Double or Nothing.

Q—Your husband isn't here. Didn't you notify him you were seeking this divorce?

A—All he wanted to know was whether I was getting it in black and white or color?

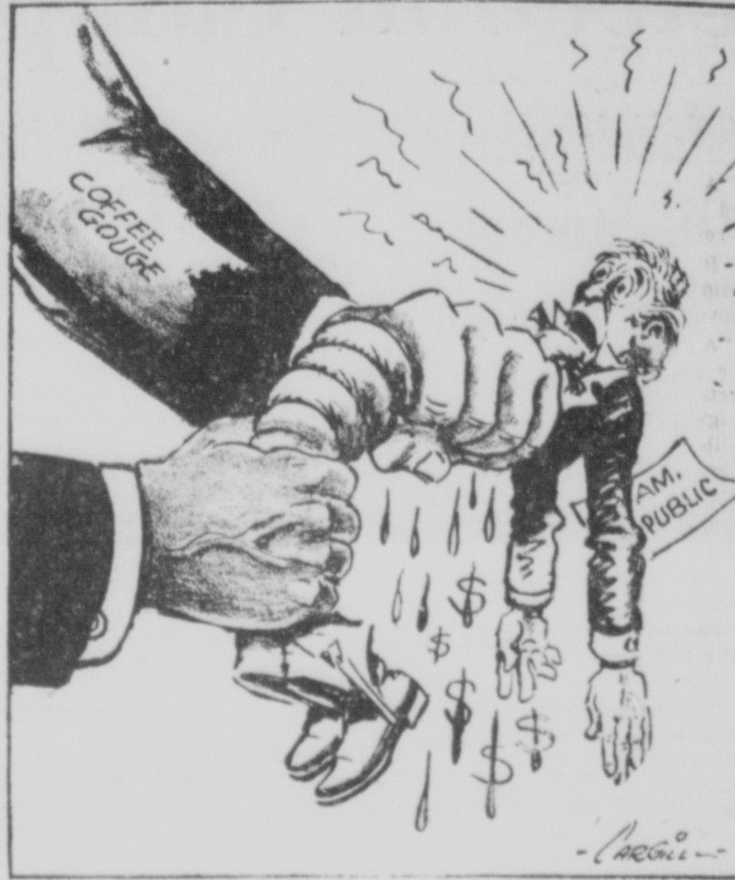

Q—At anytime did you have a talk with him in which you emphasized that love was everything and that there is nothing like a happy home?

A—He seemed to think neither was any good without an outdoor aerial.

Q—Are you confident your husband doesn't love you any more?

A—He loves nothing unless it lights up, sputters, provides eye strain, springs old jokes and

Robert S. Allen Reports

New Concessions By France On Vietnam Independence

Washington. — France will make new concessions on granting independence to the three associated states of Indo-China — Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos.

The U. S. has positive assurance of that. Defense Secretary Charles Wilson disclosed this far-reaching development at a closed-door meeting with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

He stressed the vital importance of independence in bolstering native morale in the bitter struggle against Communist aggression, and also in opening the way for U. S. training of native troops.

The French have persistently balked at this, although clamoring for more and more military equipment and other aid. Native leaders are eager for American training, Cambodia and Laos, particularly, want the U. S. to take over the job of building up their armed forces.

That can be tackled quickly once the associated states are in control of their own governments.

Secretary Wilson indicated to the senators that this is an early eventuality.

But he ducked when pressed for details. The Pentagon chief referred such questions to Secretary of State Dulles.

"He can tell you about this matter more fully than I can," said Wilson. "He's been working with the French, and knows all about it."

"That's an excellent suggestion," replied a committeeman dryly, "and perhaps you can help us locate Mr. Dulles. We tried to reach him to find out what is going on regarding Indo-China and other crucial problems. But the only information we could get from the State Department was that he had gone to Duck Island, or something like that, and couldn't be reached. It strikes us very strange that in these critical days, the Secretary of State is not at his desk."

Wilson said nothing.

Similarly, he and Admiral Radford remained silent when Senator Republican leader William Knowland, Calif., demanded an explanation for the exclusion of South Korea and Nationalist China from the Administration's proposed ten-nation defense alliance in the Pacific.

"Perhaps you can shed some light on this curious action," said Knowland. "Such an alliance without these two countries doesn't make sense to me."

No one said anything to this outburst and, finally, when the silence became embarrassing, Senator Alexander Wiley (R., Wis.), Committee chairman, changed the subject.

Note: Radford reported that by parachuting operations, the French have been able to reinforce the Dienbienphu garrison.

No Golden Eggs — That highly-touted federal gambling tax has been a bust.

It has brought in only a fraction of the revenue claimed for it, and on top of that, enforcement is costing as much, if not more, than what is being obtained.

Internal Revenue Commissioner Andrews would like to get rid of the levy.

He hinted this broadly to a group of senators during a private discussion of the gambling tax, which was enacted in 1951 as an indirect result of Senator Estes Kefauver's sensational crime investigation.

Kefauver, himself, didn't think much of the act and said so at the time. Since then, it's had a checkered course in the courts; some judges upholding it and others rejecting it. The levy consists of two parts: one is a 10 per cent tax on all "wagers," the other requires bookies to buy $50 tax stamps.

Combined income from the two sources last year was $10,475,000.

That is approximately 2-1/2 per cent of the $400,000,000 which advocates contended would be produced, when they were reluctantly putting the tax through Congress.

Commissioner Andrews, while admitting no enthusiasm for the levy, with equal frankness put much of the blame for its ineffectiveness squarely on Congress itself. He bluntly pointed out that after enacting this so-called "anti-gambling tax" with a great flourish of self-righteousness, Congress has not provided funds to enforce it.

Frankie Frisch, Fordham graduate who is rated one of the great second basemen in major league history, became a scholarly-looking, bespectacled TV announcer, but in his playing days, was an articulate and active member of the old St. Louis Cardinals' "Gus House Gang" that made umpires' lives particularly miserable.

In one game, Frisch had occasion to question a decision by Umpire Busty Boggess at the home plate, concluding his oration by labelling Boggess a "blubberhead."

"Did you say 'luggerhead'?" roared the red-faced Boggess. "No sir," answered Frisch, his voice suddenly subdued and gentlemanly. "I said 'blubberhead.' I always knew you were blind as a bat, but now I discover you're deaf, too!"

The Fordham Flash heard the rest of the game via radio in the clubhouse dressing room.

George Sokolsky Says...

Farm Groups Have Little Cooperation Even When They May Agree On Program

One thinks of the American farmer as the most individualistic of individuals, the backbone of conservatism in this country. During the past two decades, the American farmer has become as highly organized as labor, is represented by a number of huge organizations which differ in principle and which quarrel with each other, each seeking to establish a particular position in Congress.

The principal quarrel at this moment is over price supports, whether they should be rigid or flexible.

Taking three items, butter, cheese and milk, it is possible to see how great the burden is upon the Government. During one week in March about 120,000,000 pounds of these products were dumped upon the government:

Estimated Stocks in Merchandising Position 1/1 March 24—March 31: Butter (lbs.) 253,798,000; 273,875,000; Cheese (lbs.) 238,151,000; 366,880,000; Milk (dried) (lbs.) 413,826,000; 484,600,000; Estimated Total Stocks 2/ March 24—March 31: Butter (lbs.) 328,129,000; 364,170,000; Cheese (lbs.) 339,172,000; 483,108,000; Milk (dried) (lbs.) 539,244,000; 598,795,000.

1. Estimated CCC stocks which are in store and not committed for sale or movement.

2. Estimated total stocks owned by CCC, including stocks shown in column one, plus commitments to purchase less commitments to sell.

The largest farm organization is the Grange, established in 1867, now having more than 8,000 local organizations which include 850,000 members. The Grange is organized in 37 states. It has been generally for flexible price supports, but has somewhat weakened recently and tends to favor the two-price system on wheat.

The American Farm Bureau Federation was organized in 1919 and now has 1,591,777 members. They are organized in 48 states. This is probably the most influential politically of the farm groups.

Most of the state groups are in favor of flexible supports; 12 states are opposed to the flexible price supports. The national organization is in favor of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson's farm program.

The National Farmers Union was organized in 1902 and claims a membership of about 235,000. It used to be the strongest in the one-crop areas, such as the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin, but is now growing rapidly in such states as Oklahoma, Arkansas and some others.

The Farmers Union is for government guarantees of 100 per cent of parity on all farm products. They claim credit for the present farm policy and oppose Secretary Benson, who is trying to change it. It is interesting to note that the Farmers Union has absorbed several important personalities of the Truman Administration, such as former Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan, protagonist of the Brannan Plan, who is now its counsel, and Leon Keyserling, former chairman of President Truman's Council of Economic Advisers, who is a special assistant to President James Patton.

The literature of the Farmers Union differs from the other organizations because it would seem to be a continuation of the 19th Century Populist movement. In its official history, describing the exploitation of the farmers by the "robber barons" and the railroads, they say:

"As a result of this situation, the farmers united and formed class organizations and political movements. They founded the Grange which had as its principal objective the destruction of monopoly. They formed the Greenback Movement to cheapen the currency and thus increase the value of their products. They formed the Silver Movement for the same reason, and they united in the Populist Party to elect men to redress their grievances and enact laws to carry out their demands."

"But all of these protest groups fell by the wayside..."

There are a number of other farm organizations such as the National Council of Farmers Cooperatives and many special commodity groups. All farm organizations favor some type of price support, rigid or flexible. There is inadequate coordination even when they agree on a program. The Farmers Union often cooperates with the C. I. O. on farmer-labor concepts.

What is wrong with most people is that they have a terrible SUPERIORITY complex. But it is very difficult to tell where the inferiority complex ends and the superiority complex begins.

I had dinner with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. It was an intimate dinner—there were only 999 other guests present.

It was the annual dinner of the Overseas Press Club, at which Dulles made that speech about Indo-China and told us that and why we are not going to admit Red China to the United Nations.

My wife stayed home and watched the affair on television. She always says that she doesn't like to go to those "professional" get-togethers. Wives, in her opinion, are only also-rans at these shindigs, and shouldn't try to cash in on whatever little achievements of their husbands might be guilty.

My table was pretty much in front, right close to the dais, and I told my wife to watch for me on television. "I'll wave my arms very inconspicuously a couple of times," I told her, "so you won't have any trouble finding me."

When I got home that night I asked her whether she had watched the affair on television. She had.

"How did you like Dulles' speech?" I asked next.

I didn't know how to beat around the bush any longer, so my next query was, "Did you see me on television?"

"My dear," was her answer, "you said there were a thousand people at that dinner. You also said you would wave your arms inconspicuously. I looked for that wave of your arms. But it just so happened that just about every man in the Waldorf ballroom was also waving his arms at just about the same time, probably for the same reason that you waved yours."

The half of Alaska which it is now suggested be formed into a new state would include all the bigger towns except Nome. Creating, as it were, a new kind of Nome Man's Land.

Argentina's new "people's car" will cost $5,000 plus "extras." What kind of people are they talking about?

Favorite food of the Awaji (Japan) islanders is octopus. No wonder, it has eight drimsticks.

The Baltimore Orioles who once won seven International league pennants in a row, setting a baseball victory record, lost their first American league game. Some folks are never satisfied.

Average length of life during the Bronze Age was 20 years—Factographs. Seems as though Grandpa Cave Man was just a kid.

Florida Is Future Home For Retired

—by Merle C. Ostrom

Back a whole week from Florida and I still get "where's the tan?" Well the truthful answer is "there ain't any." I'm susceptible to hot sun accompanied by Florida winds and in sheer self-preservation, I stayed out and away from these atmospheric influences as much as I could.

While I'm on the subject of the sunny south, I might say that more and more Stroudsburgers who are already retired or are about to do so will make Florida their future winter quarters.

Howard Keiper who lives in Venice (just south of Sarasota) is already spending four of the twelve months in his own home there. I have no assurances of this but from conversations I have had with Ed Kenny and his wife, it wouldn't surprise me to see them locate in or around Sarasota starting next season.

A contemporary in a recent issue says our major cities have become so congested with cars and trucks that there are only two kinds of parking left... illegal and no. Sounds like the corner of seventh and Main street in Stroudsburg on any summer week-end.

Morris Evans and his good wife, with the Dave Hallowicks, returned from Florida a week ago. Just learned recently that Morris lived for six years in the sunny south and that this was the first time in eleven years he had been back. Probably he's a yearly event from now on, if what I hear is true.

There's been a lot of talk lately about the "bathroom traffic" when TV commercials come on but the one for the book is an invention by an advertising agency man who plays around with gadget-making and who has marketed a device to sell for two or three bucks and with which you can shut off the commercial from any point of vantage from where you may be viewing your favorite programs. The informant says that today orders average 3,000 a day. They call the thing "Blah-off."

Tried to get my car in the Penn Stroud garage (where I always park it during business hours) today but Mine Host Jerry O'Neill is having the place painted (of all colors) green for Hotel show opening tomorrow.

My New York

—by Mel Heimer

New York—Measuring the prevalence of insanity in any area is a tremendous task, especially because of the presence of so many borderline cases such as men who play deuces-wild poker and persons of both sexes who try to beat the horses. However, today I have at hand at least one reliable figure. I know there are at least 1,744,095 crazy people in New York City.

This figure comes to me from the Automobile Merchants Association of New York and it represents, of course, the number of car owners in this metropolis so completely and wholly unsuited for owning a car.

In a way, this staggering total represents a masterful triumph for the car makers. It is obvious that they have pruned, heveled, toiled, polished and outfitted their products so skillfully that they have trapped 1,744,095 New Yorkers—the toughest, most blasé and indifferent customers in the world—into mottering, "Gee whiz—ain't it beautiful?" and then buying these fascinating jobs.

It is only after he has bought it that the Manhattanite suddenly leans back, smites himself in the forehead like Jackie Gleason and says, "Great heavens above—now that I've got it, what am I going to do with it?"

To begin with, driving a car here is absurd. In fact, you can't drive here. There is no place to drive. You can twist the ignition key in your eight-cylinder monster, step on the starter and, perhaps, roll down to the nearest corner—but after that you are stuck.

The streets are spilling over at the edges with taxicabs, buses and huge trucks that stand motionless and sullen in the direct center of streets while being unloaded. With a compass and a set lunch, you can get from Hington Square to Van Court- Park, a distance of about 1.5 miles, in 8 or 10 hours. Going cross-town, naturally, is not worth thinking of. You cannot go cross-town.

Then, if you sanely resign yourself to not driving your shiny pet but, instead, just looking at it every now and then, you're still in trouble. There's no place to put it.

There are a handful of garages sprinkled around the five boroughs, for eight million people, but no one can afford them. If you park on the street, which is what most of the crazy men do, you wait an average of two hours before some misguided soul comes out of his apartment and drives his car away, leaving you parking space.

Liquor Taxes Breed Heavy Bootlegging

Government liquor taxes have brought a vast bootlegging and moonshining business back in operation.

That was the message of Rocco Buonino, speaker at the Monroe County Retail Liquor Dealers Association annual banquet last night at the Penn Stroud Hotel, Stroudsburg.

"Strangulation tax policy of the government has brought crime, corruption and racketeering through a huge industry of moonshining and bootlegging," Buonino said.

The high-tax policy on liquor is a fallacy, he claimed. Instead of gaining additional revenue, said Buonino, the government actually loses revenue to illegal, non-taxed liquor production.

The loss annually runs into the hundreds of millions, he claimed. During Prohibition, Buonino said, the high year for seizure of illegal stills resulted in closing down 21,000 of them. From the end of Prohibition to World War Two there was virtually no major moonshining, he went on.

After the tax on a gallon of liquor rose from its pre-war rate of $6 to its present $10.50 to $14 moonshining and bootlegging again became profitable to gangsters.

The proof, in 1952, and again in 1953, government agents seized 20,000 stills. Their combined daily capacity was 285,000 gallons greater than all of the legal stills in the entire nation, said Buonino.

As a result of illegal liquor manufacture, the government loses an estimated $700,000,000 to $1 billion a year, he continued.

Buonino saw a need for greater enforcement and reduced liquor taxes.

A Federal tax reduced to $6 a gallon would take the profit out of moonshining and bootlegging, he said. Anything over that amount tends to encourage the growth of the criminal element.

Hundreds of guests and members were present for the affair.

Rev. Adan Bohner gave the invocation; secretary Rose Smith introduced officers Thomas Cullen, vice-president; Theodore Regina, second vice-president; Danny Pace, treasurer. President Frank McNamara was absent.

The 20 robes were distributed and will be displayed by the choir on Sunday morning during the church service.

PP&L Common Stock Issue Subscribed

Chas. E. Oakes, Pennsylvania Power & Light Company president, announced today that 93% of the shares of common stock recently offered to shareholders had been subscribed for.

The 704,917 share offering, made April 2, 1954 at $39.75 per share, closed yesterday with only 49,321 shares going to the underwriting group headed by The First Boston Corporation and Drexel & Co.

Mr. Oakes expressed extreme satisfaction at the results and commented that "it again evidences a vote of confidence in our company".

Under the terms of the PP&L offer, common shareholders were given the right to subscribe for one share for each seven shares held of record April 2, 1954.

Rev. Pontier At Bushkill

Bushkill—Rev. Raymond Pontier, of Port Jervis, N. Y., assisted by Rev. John H. Lackey, served Holy Communion to members and guests of the Bushkill Reformed Church here during Holy Week services. Assisting the pastors were Louis Lee and Louis Hoffercker, elders; Albert Smith Jr., and Ivan Michaels, deacons.

Pete Wyckoff Is President Of "Jaycees"

A new Monroe County "Jaycee" organization was formed last night. Officers for the year were elected.

Named to leading positions in the new organization were Peter Wyckoff, president; Mac Below, first vice president; Ed Somers, second vice president; Robert Widmer, secretary; Chester Miller, treasurer.

Named to the board of directors were Phillip Hardaker, two year term and William Gorton, one year term. Both men will serve on the seven-man executive board with officers of the group.

Regular Jaycee meetings will be held on the third Tuesday of each month. The next meeting is slated for next Tuesday, April 27, however, to continue immediately the group's organization plans.

At last night's meeting, held in Wyckoff's Tea Room, a special committee was appointed by Wyckoff to study potential projects which the group's members may undertake.

Heading this project committee is Claude Heilenman. Members are Hardaker, Howard Popkin and Stanley Grace.

President Wyckoff asked William Miller and Paul "Skip" Mannix to carry on their work as heads of the membership committee. A total of 38 men attended last night's meeting.

The Jaycee organization—totally independent of other organizations but designed to work with them for community betterment—is intended for young men between the ages of 21 and 35 who wish to take an active part in their community's civic affairs.

The man, Stewart W. Felker, 37, of 835 Thomas St., this borough, pleaded guilty to a charge of forgery on Dec. 1, 1952 before President Judge Fred W. Davis in county court.

Felker was alleged to have forged the name of plumbers union president Harry Hartman to twenty cash checks. These checks were forwarded to the union's national headquarters.

Authorities charged that Felker had signed Hartman's name without his prior knowledge or consent.

You Can't Hold Umbrella Over Leaking Roof

The roof takes a worse beating from the elements than any other part of the home. It serves as a first line of defense, keeping the weather outside where it belongs. High winds tear at roof, ice and snow freeze it, sleet and hail beat it, the sun burns it at temperatures frequently exceeding 150 degrees, and then rain cools it. Yet, roofs are expected to give years of trouble-free protection.

Too many home owners take the roof for granted. They may inspect the furnace, sidewalls, windows and other parts of the house every fall and spring—but they never think of looking at the roof until it's too late. It is only reasonable to expect that in time the roof will begin to show some wear, however, because nature eventually destroys every material. That is why it is necessary to repaint your home periodically and to make various repairs.

If your roof has given long years of trouble-free service, therefore, a recommended precaution is to have it inspected by a competent contractor who can determine if it is still watertight and sturdy enough to withstand the rigors of another winter. Roofers point out that it is more economical to cover old weathered roofing material with new shingles than to suffer the consequences of a roof failure. The cost of repairing cracked walls and ceilings and of re-papering and re-painting often is far more than the cost of applying a new roof.

Auto Painter May Help With Color Problem

The demand is constantly increasing for refrigerators and other kitchen appliances in the same color as the kitchen walls.

Production and inventory problems, however, still present many difficulties for manufacturers, and make it impossible for them to supply the demand.

As a consequence, many home owners are sending out newly purchased appliances to automobile paint shops. There, they can have them sprayed in the desired hue.

Refinishing Old Picture Frame Easy

If you want to refinish an old picture frame, rub it smooth with fine steel wool or 00 sandpaper and then dust it. If other than natural finish is desired, stain wood to desired color with oil or water stain according to directions on the can.

When dry, apply a coat of white shellac cut half and half with good quality denatured alcohol. Sandpaper again after it has dried and apply two or more coats of the cut shellac as desired. When last coat is dry, rub lightly with sandpaper or steel wool and wax.

Don't Start Painting After Rain

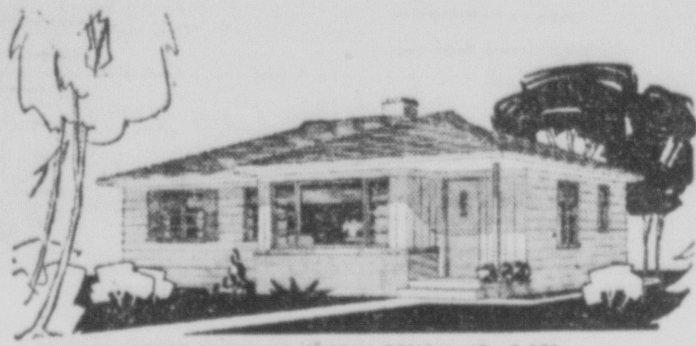

Never start an outside paint job until about four days after heavy rains. Wood, brick and stucco absorb moisture and need time to dry out.

Don't start a paint job in the morning until the sun has dried up the night's dampness, and don't paint in misty or damp weather.

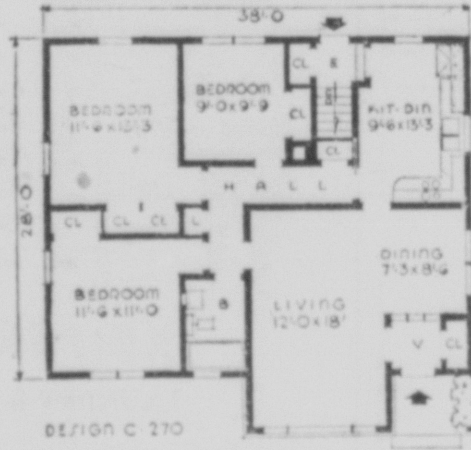

Paint that has a temperature below 50 degrees becomes too thick for a firm bond.

Glass May Crack

Lack of putty and paint on the frames of windows may cause cracked glass. Moisture absorbed by unprotected frames during heavy rainfalls causes swelling of the wood. The resulting pressure on the glass pane often cracks it.

Location Of Doors Vital In Designing Small Homes To Avoid Waste Swing Area

In the designing of small homes, the location and number of doors are important, since the arc of the swing is wasted area.

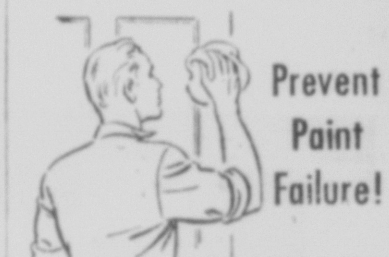

Where there are too many doors, the owner is likely to be confronted with a serious problem of furniture placement. It should also be remembered that the more doors a room contains, the more through traffic it will have.

WIL-BOND before Repainting

A glossy varnished or enameled surface should be cleaned and dulled before repainting. It's easy with WIL-BOND. Just dampen a rag with this liquid and rub down the surface. Off come wax, grease and dirt—and the gloss is thoroughly dulled. The new finish spreads smoothly and adheres perfectly—no danger of a streaky, unsightly result.

Indo-China Statements Confusing

Associated Press News Analyst.
Repeated statements by administration leaders have served to confuse rather than clarify America's intended course with regard to Indochina.

This is always true when important matters are approached on the basis of hypothetical questions. Will the French get beaten? Will they pull out? How far do we go if they do? Can the war be won except by direct cooperation between the United States and independent Indochinese states instead of with the French? Can it be won at all when many of the people most directly affected don't seem to care?

Secretary Wilson says it is proper to reduce the number of American troops in Korea, where there is no active war now although it remains a danger point, because if war is renewed there it will be fought in a new manner, not slugged out man to man. At the same time he refers to 20 South Korean divisions available. Does that mean that new weapons will be so heavily relied upon that Koreans would be expected to do most of the job? If so, does that apply to Indochina?

The number of hypothetical questions seems to be largely responsible for the confusion of statements by government officials regarding the possibility of sending American troops to Indochina.

Word usages play their part. The United States "may" have to do something like that, but doesn't "plan" it. But Southeast Asia, they say, is so important that it cannot and will not be permitted to fall into Communist hands.

That puts all the argument on the basis of what day, time and circumstances the individual is talking about.

If defense of Southeast Asia is so important, then the day could come when every American resource, including manpower, would have to be tapped.

Current diplomatic negotiations are designed to prevent the arrival of such a time. The objective is to convince Red China that she can't afford to make a break, and that if she does she would be subject not so much to American reaction on the ground, but to the "massive retaliation" about which there has been so much talk. That, too, is suggested in Wilson's words about not slugging it out man for man.

The truth of the matter is that the French, regardless of their eagerness for a cease fire, have no intention of getting out of Indochina. They will not even promise, for the purpose of getting greater cooperation from the Indochinese people, to let the three states leave the French Union, if they wish, after the war.

The basic question, then, is whether the French and native forces can themselves maintain a successful military defense of Southeast Asia in Indochina with the aid of American munitions alone.

Only when the answer to that question is apparent can other nations really decide what they are called upon to do.

Tuesday, after recreation and an inspection of Buck Hill facilities, Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau members joined the hotel men for discussion of "A Sound Rate Policy" by Allan C. George of Harris, Kerr, Forster and Co., New York; and "New Products for Better Maintenance" by Warren C. Hyer of York Research Corp., Stamford, Conn.

Precedent Making Water Usage Case Before Court

Philadelphia (AP)—Pennsylvania's Supreme Court yesterday pondered the question of water: Who can use it, when and where and how to stop its pollution.

The issues centered around legal arguments raised by residents and communities in Montgomery County, but the outcome concerned the entire state.

In one instance the authority of the State Water and Power Resources Board was challenged.

In the other, the clean streams program backed by the State Sanitary Water Board was threatened.

Residents of the Perkiomen Valley attacked the right of the Water and Power Resources Board to permit the Philadelphia Suburban Water Co. to draw some 16½ million gallons daily from the Perkiomen Creek, and implement this by erecting a dam across the creek at Green Lane.

The commonwealth upheld the board's authority on grounds that without a central control agency "the plight of water rights in Pennsylvania will be one of eternal conflict resulting in confusion many times confounded."

Harry F. Stambaugh, special counsel for the board, told the seven justices of the state's highest appellate court that the state "must insure an equitable distribution of water among its 10 million inhabitants."

"The waters of a river or a creek or other stream which traverse several counties—as in the case of the Perkiomen Creek—cannot be equitably or consistently divided by as many different judges of courts of common pleas."

On the other side, attorney P. Nicholson Wood said the county courts should be permitted to overrule the Water and Power Re-

Jim Malone Endorses Sen. Walker

Pittsburgh (AP)—Dist. Atty. James F. Malone endorsed yesterday the candidacy of state Sen. John M. Walker for the Republican nomination for Superior Court.

In announcing his support for Walker, the Allegheny County district attorney also said Walker is "being pushed around" by Gov. John S. Fine.

Walker is seeking the Superior Court post without support of the state Republican policy group.

The group is backing incumbent Judge Robert E. Woodside; Ralph T. Bell, former Allegheny County Common Pleas judge; and Judge George W. Griffith of Cambria County.

Malone said:

"Sen. Walker's candidacy has been opposed by Gov. Fine. Fine's opposition is based solely on the grounds that Walker prevented an unjust tax on the people in 1951."

Now he is being punished by this inefficient and unsuccessful governor because of his fight against the income tax."

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Sometimes, we all seem to grow weary in well-doing. The needs are so many, the stories so appealing, and there's always another drive coming up. We sort of harden our hearts, thinking that there's got to be an end to this sometime.

The trouble is that most of us never know of the happy endings that our contributions make possible. It's like a play switched off just when things are at their most desperate. There are reasons, of course, why the full story can never be told.

But there are many happy endings. I was thinking of that as I was listening to the reports of the Children's Aid Society yesterday afternoon—one of its wards grown to manhood and achieving his life ambition to enlist in one of the services—another with a severe heart condition for whom technical training has meant a good job, fitted for his handicap. Who knows what the end of those stories might have been, if it hadn't been for you.

Multiply that by all the agencies to which you give, and those gifts are coming back to you, all unknown, in a better world for you and your children.

And speaking of the children, have you ever known school vacations and perfect weather to cooperate so thoroughly as they have these past two days? Now begins the hard grind to the end of school, but with the sunshine and memories they've stored up they should make it with ease.

Listen To Bobby Westbrook daily, Monday through Friday, on "The Party Line" WVPO, 10:15 a. m.

Children's Aid To Hear Of Local Needs

The annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society of Monroe County will feature a report of the recent survey of welfare needs in Monroe County undertaken by the social planning committee of the Community Chest.

Mrs. Claude Leister, chairman of the survey, is to be the guest speaker at the dinner meeting which has been set for Wednesday, May 12.

Plans for this meeting and for other activities were discussed at the meeting of the board of directors of the Children's Society held yesterday noon at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Mrs. Jesse Flory, president presided at the meeting when Miss Ora Pendleton, CAS county agency director, was a guest. The budget for the coming year was presented and approved. Mrs. Flory reported on the "Roll Call for Children" meeting held in Harrisburg which she and Mrs. Jean Albert, executive secretary, had attended.

Announcement was also made of the state advisory board meeting to be held in Philadelphia this Friday. Mrs. Frank L. Patterson Jr., local board member, is in charge of the program which will be devoted to a study of how family service and child caring agencies have combined their services in other counties. Miss Pendleton urged local board members to attend.

Mrs. Albert, on reporting on the activities of the society with its children during the month, listed 54 children in care, with three new children received into care, three discharged, and two applications for placement pending. The need for more foster homes for all ages and sexes was emphasized. There are now 28 homes in use in the county, she announced.

The loss of the discharged was the most encouraging part of the report, since one child was released having been accepted into the Armed services, another on having completed his technical education and having secured a position, and the third to her own parents.

Mrs. Albert said that the agency's slides had been shown to three groups during the past month. She also announced the meeting of the Lehigh Valley Social Exchange to be held April 26 at Pocono Manor Inn.

Slick Chicks For Gradale Easter Show

Those are real live chicks in Joan Sommers' chic Easter bonnet, with a pocket flash for light and warmth, and they won for her first prize in the recent Easter hat parade given at the meeting of the Gradale Sorority of the YMCA featured at their April meeting at the Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church.

Flowers by the basketful adorned the head of Alma Hogrelius, and Pat Dwan wore a real bird's nest containing a genuine robin's egg. Florence Zateeny encircled a completely filled Easter basket with yards of varicolored net. Lettuce leaves, radishes and string beans, fruit, crepe paper, lace and even a chamber pot played important roles in other creations.

During the serious part of their program, the sorority planned for the district rally to be held in Bangor on April 25. Plans were also discussed for the coming rummage sale. Proceeds from the sale will be used to send a delegate to the first National Y Gradale Conference to be held in Estes Park, Colorado, in July. Mrs. Jean Farry is chairman for the rummage sale.

The local YMCA plans to make their annual group visit to the Bangor Chapter next Tuesday.

The hospital gift committee reported on the candy which had been sent to Monroe County patients in tuberculosis hospitals. The local sorority has made this an annual project and plans to continue it.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Hitching posts—that's what they are, these tall pillars on our main floor that hold our upstairs departments in their proper location. Right now they're so beautiful we can hitch to them our every dream of spring, have you noticed? Swinging from each metal arm is a wicker cage holding colorful birds and spilling over with philodendron, smilax, wisteria, and other blossoms. Fran Meredith has gone all out to bring spring indoors, and all that's needed to add a final bit of enchantment is a perfume fountain playing in our cosmetic department. Can't you just imagine all this charming make-believe set to the wafted fragrance of Blue Grass or Chantilly? ... Our spirits are undoubtedly building up to a most magnificent crescendo. Or maybe we should spell it "Crescendo" as does the manufacturer of these popular and durable gloves. The new line is imaginative and chic, designed for real comfort on those warm days when gloves are called for rather than needed. One can choose between white trimmed with navy, red, or luggage tan at $2.75 a pair. These are short styles maybe, but awfully long on fashion. Each finger has sides of cotton mesh—a lattice to let in the breezes. Whoever designed them had spring at heart. Now we can have it in the palm of our hand... If you notice a Tang in the air, here's how to enjoy it—just introduce Dad to the toiletries of Gourelli. Prince Gourelli is the husband of Helena Rubinstein, you know, and supplies the men of our nation with sophisticated aids to good grooming. "Tang" and "Here's How" are names given a very masculine and enchanting line of talcs, after shave lotions and colognes. These are "all boy" and "oh boy" to the last whiff. Shaving soap, comes in a hammered aluminum ice bucket; liquid preparations and talcs are bottled in miniature, chrome-topped cocktail shakers of glass. It's getting to the point where HIS dresser is as loaded with whimsy as HERS—so let's propose a toast to their Mutual Admiration Society. ... From the Club Lido comes a card from Walter Wyckoff who's having a wonderful time visiting the museums, cathedrals, and theatres of Paris. It's really Paris in the spring, he says, and now I feel more a martyr than ever. As though just plain ordinary spring fever weren't enough! ... In his book, "Clown," Emmett Kelly pays a beautiful tribute to his mother, which reminds us that with Easter gone Mother's Day is close upon us. Florence Predmore's racks, once bare of bunny-trimmed cards, were almost immediately stocked with verses honoring Mom, and the candy department is also thinking sweet thoughts of the same little lady. Can't call her a "silver haired lady" anymore, because 99 times out of 100 she isn't. ... Just discovered that Mabel Anderson and I were born under the same sign—Taurus, and our horoscope for April 20th tells us to be "reasonably energetic—a thinker." I'm glad that word "reasonably" is there. How energetic is "reasonably" on a day when tantalizing breezes stir the window drapes, and the sunshine plays peekaboo around the moving blinds? Oh, Mabel and I are thinking all right—about vacations, and fishing, and swaying in a hammock with a good book. But we both agree it would be much easier to invite you in to SEE all of our wonderful merchandise, than to try to tell you about it in print. Wonder if we're stocking picnic baskets this early?

Stroudsburg Invades East Stroudsburg For Baseball Opener

Weingartner On Sidelines With Measles

Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg open their respective scholastic baseball seasons today by playing each other at East Stroudsburg Playground, at 4 p.m.

There was plenty of excitement in the Stroudsburg camp yesterday, when the Mountaineers found out that they would be without their star shortstop Karl Weingartner. Weingartner is expected to be out of action for several days with a case of measles and swollen glands.

Coach Jerry Stulgaitis announced last night that Bill Carson, regular right fielder, would also be among the missing today. Carson is on the shelf with an injured leg and will be replaced by Jim Driebe.

In an effort to fill the gap created by Weingartner's absence, Stulgaitis has shifted Paul "Doc" Lim from second base to shortstop, while Ken Barthold takes over at the keystone sack. The remainder of the Stroudsburg inner defense will feature Dick "Pickles" Hintze at third base; Dave Nevil, first base and Dick Campeotto in the catching spot.

In addition to Driebe, the Stroudsburg outfield will feature LeRoy Van Buskirk in left field and Harold Miller in center.

Pitchers

Don "Ockie" Setzer, sophomore right hander, is listed as the starting pitcher for the Mountaineers. Dick Little will be used in relief if necessary.

East Stroudsburg will work behind the pitching slants of Bill Sommers, with Gary "Jeep" Peckman being first in the relief line if needed.

Bob "Booster" Miller and John Myra will probably divide the catching chores, while Bill Penzyl handles first base. Dick Gray will be at second base; Harold White, shortstop; Gene Plaza, third base; Bob "Red" Kupiszewski, left field; Don Herman, center field, and Chayley Lits, right field.

Both the Mountaineers and Cavaliers open their respective league schedules on Friday. Stroudsburg invades Palmerton in the Lehigh Valley League, while the charges of Coach Jack Kist play host to Parkland in the Lehigh-Northampton League opener.

Derby Jinx Strikes Again

New York (AP) — The "jinx" on leading Kentucky Derby candidates continued yesterday when Joe Gavegnano's fleet Errard King was sidelined indefinitely with an injured right front foot.

The colt's trainer, Irish-born Tom Barry, announced the casualty—a serious quarter crack—after he had galloped the son of Errard for a mile this morning at Jamaica.

Lost

Errard King, who had been made an 8-1 choice in the Louisville classic May 1, not only is lost for that spectacle but also probably won't be able to go in the other features of the Triple Crown for which he had been nominated—the Preakness and Belmont Stakes.

This was just another in a series of mishaps which have befallen topflight Kentucky Derby contenders in recent weeks. In all, seven candidates—including the heavily favored Turn-to and Porthouse—have been withdrawn.

Louis Organizes Milk Company

Chicago (AP) — Former Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis has organized the Joe Louis Milk Co. on Chicago's South Side.

Papers

Incorporation papers filed with the Cook County recorder listed Jesse and Helen Thornton and Mayor Thornton, of Chicago, and Dr. J. A. Thornton of Ecorse, Mich., as stockholders with Louis.

The company expects to gross $150,000 in the current year, the articles said.

Redlegs Crush Cards

Baseball Meeting Scheduled

Bangor—Boys between the ages of eight and 12 wishing to play with the Second Ward entry in the Bangor Little League are asked to attend a meeting at the Second Ward fire house tomorrow, at 6:30 p. m.

The youngsters will be under the direction of William B. Scott, manager; Clyde Trigg, coach, and Charley Wagner, league representative.

Practice

It is planned to hold the initial practice session of the season on Saturday, at 1:30 p. m., on the South Bangor field.

Tomorrow's meeting was originally listed for Friday, but a change was made by circuit officials.

The Bangor League will play on a new field this season.

TALENT—Coach Jerry Stulgaitis, second from left, is shown above with three players counted on to carry the baseball load for Stroudsburg High this season. The trio of players, from left to right, includes Captain Dick Schuster, Dick Campeotto and Don "Ockie" Setzer. Setzer is scheduled to pitch against East Stroudsburg today. (Daily Record Photo)

Turner Choice To Reverse Jones Upset

Philadelphia (AP) — Gil Turner, who insists he only has eyes for "Kid" Gavilan, fights Bobby Jones here tonight for the right to meet Joey Giardello.

This nationally televised return match has more ramifications than football's "sucker shift."

You see, last March 24, Jones, 29, of Oakland, Calif., a three to one underdog, won a split decision over Turner, 23, of Philadelphia. Almost everyone at ringside agreed Jones won. One judge, apparently watching through one eye, called it a draw.

Promoter Herman Taylor said the crowd—there were about 1,200 customers—clamored for a return bout. An unestimated throng, plus the CBS TV audience can sit in on the encore starting at 10 p. m. (EST) tonight.

Angles

Turner's manager George Katz, insists his boy has completed the cycle of welterweight to middleweight and back to welterweight. Katz is angling, so he says, for a Turner-Carmine Basilio fight, the 147-pound crown. Meanwhile, he keeps Turner at 151 pounds or more and campaigns against middleweights.

Should Turner reverse the last Jones verdict, Promoter Taylor says he'll face Giardello in an outdoor ball park show this summer. Giardello is listed as the next challenger for "Bobo" Olson's 160-pound title and holds one decision over Turner. Katz says nothing when Giardello's name is mentioned. After all, Turner's a welterweight, remember.

Another odd thing about this bout is the odds. Turner, a well beaten gladiator in the first Jones clash, is a two to one wagger choice. Turner has won 42 and lost five, while Jones carries a 26-19 and eight draws record into action.

TV Limit Set For Fight

New York (AP) — The heavyweight title fight between champion "Rocky" Marciano and Ezzard Charles at Yankee Stadium, June 17, will not be televised into your home.

The 15-rounder will be telecast into theaters over a closed circuit by Theater Network Television Inc., only. The announcement was made yesterday by President James D. Norris of the International Boxing Club.

Tenth Time

It will be the 10th major fight to be telecast into theaters by TNT.

Theaters in New York and New England will not receive the telecasts, however, said Norris.

He said that no decision has been made yet on radio broadcasts of the bout.

Phils Option Catcher

Philadelphia (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies last night announced rookie catcher Joe Lonnett has been optioned to Syracuse of the International League on 24-hour recall.

Monroe County Represented At Turf Association Meeting

Berwick — The initial 1954 meeting of the Pocono Turf Association took place here at Berwick Country Club yesterday.

Irving Hill, superintendent of the club, and Bill Skomsky, new pro, served as hosts.

Frank Nause, Valley Country Club, Hazleton, was elected president of the organization for this season. Al Wilfong, Wyoming Valley Country Club, Wilkes-Barre, was named secretary. Ted Weiser, Scranton Country Club pro, is the new treasurer.

Program

Herman Amble and Jack Yohey, Berwick served as toastmasters at the banquet which consisted of a turkey dinner. Dr. Jack Watson,

Chicago, was the main speaker.

Amble is the new president of the Berwick club, while Yohey is chairman of the greens committee.

Movies were shown by Jim Hutchinson, county agent, Luzerne County, following the banquet.

A lengthy business meeting was also held.

Five men from Monroe County attended the meeting. The group included Ray Lambert, Mountain Manor pro; John Bender, Skytop greens keeper; George Sebring, Stroudsburg; Harry Drennan, superintendent of Buck Hill Falls, and Bill Krummell, Skytop.

Anyone interested played golf in the afternoon.

Little Leaguers To Register

Registration for youngsters wishing to play in the East Stroudsburg Little League will take place at the East Stroudsburg High School gymnasium today and tomorrow.

Signing of players on each day will take place from 6:30 p. m. to 8 p. m.

Birth Certificates

Each boy wishing to play in the league this season must have a birth certificate and must be between the ages of eight and 12. There is no limit on the number of boys signing for the program.

Carter Cleared Of Homicide

New York (AP) — Magistrate Jack L. Nicoll dismissed yesterday a charge of vehicular homicide against Jimmy Carter, former lightweight boxing champion, whose automobile struck and killed a 75-year-old man last Saturday.

No Evidence

Nicoll ruled there was no evidence of any criminal negligence. Police informed the court Carter's automobile had been tested and all mechanical parts found in perfect working order.

Kellner Tosses One-Hitter At Senators

Washington (AP) — Wayne Terwilliger's single with two out in the eighth inning deprived Alex Kellner of a no-hitter last night as the Philadelphia Athletics' left-hander defeated Washington, 7-0.

Kellner, who struck out six and walked three, retired 15 batters in order before Terwilliger rammed his single through the box into centerfield for the Senators' lone hit. Terwilliger was forced by pinch-hitter Clyde Vollmer, and Kellner retired the Senators in order in the ninth.

Good Show

Kellner lost his 1954 debut to the New York Yankees, 3-0, despite pitching a six-hitter.

Vic Power led the Athletics' 11-hit attack on "Chuck" Stobbs, "Sonny" Dixon and Dean Stone. His two doubles in the first two innings shot the A's into a 4-0 lead. Philadelphia .130 100 200—7 11 0

Giles Praises Move By Phils

Cincinnati (AP) — Warren Giles, president of the National League, expressed belief yesterday that the signing of Roy Hamey as general manager of the Philadelphia Phillies should be a warning to "watch out for the Phillies in the future."

Hamey, a former American Association president and former general manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was signed by the Phils a few days ago to take a general manager's post that has been vacant since the death of Herb Pennock.

Assistant

Hamey has been assistant general manager of the New York Yankees.

Giles pointed out that all nine of the Phillies' farm clubs finished in the first division last year.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Harry Schaeffer, former south-paw pitcher with the Stroudsburg Poconos and a graduate of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, has been sold by Kansas City, of the class "AAA" American Association to Toronto, of the class "AAA" International League. Schaeffer served two brief stints with the parent Yankees before returning to Kansas City. Harry is now out of the Yankee system and a good season could give him another shot at the big time. The former Stroudsburg hurler will hook up with several former teammates at Toronto.

Jack's Market and not the Eagles are the defending regular season champion in the Monroe County Softball League. The Eagles won the right to represent Monroe County in the Keystone Amateur Softball Tournament at Columbia, Pa., last season. It was stated in a recent story that the Eagles won the regular season crown last season. This column has been informed that Lou Baselice, former stock holder in the Stroudsburg Poconos and owner of the now defunct Scranton entry in the Eastern League, is now the proud owner of a stable of race horses.

Speaking of Baselice brings to mind the fact that the former diamond figure is willing to sell the rights at his Scranton Stadium as a package or in sections. High schools in this area and surrounding territories thinking about constructing lighting systems might be able to save a few dollars, if the deal would be beneficial in all respects. According to information reaching this column the drive for a new lighting system at Memorial Stadium, East Stroudsburg, is going ahead nicely at the present time. At the current pace the drive will make its goal according to schedule.

Jim "Mickey" Finn, probably the best outfielder to ever perform for the now defunct Stroudsburg Poconos, is currently a member of the Columbia club, of the class "A" South Atlantic League. Finn went to spring training with "Tulsa," of the class "AA" Texas League, but was sent down a notch recently. Columbia and Tulsa are both farm clubs of the Cincinnati Reds. Normal Camp, who once toiled for Bloomington, of the defunct North Atlantic League, has been optioned to Tulsa.

Stroudsburg launches its baseball campaign without the services of two regulars, Karl Weingartner, shortstop, and Bill Carson, right fielder. Weingartner, who scared the basketball team with a reported case of measles last winter, came up with the real thing yesterday and will probably be lost to the Mountaineers for a week or more. Karl is also suffering from a case of swollen glands. Weingartner's scare during basketball season turned out to be a rash. Carson is bothered with a leg injury. Coach Jerry Stulgaitis has revamped his infield and has sent Jim Driebe into right field for today's clash with East Stroudsburg.

Tom Kauffman, faithful listener to Tom Moorehead's Sports Clinic and a resident of Stony Corners, Henryville, recently appeared on Moorehead's show, on channel six. Kauffman, a fifth grade student at Pocono Township school, won the right to appear on the show by submitting a question to the program—What position did the late Herb Pennock play? The query was answered by a youngster from Clifton Heights, Pa., and both appeared on the show. Pennock, of course, was a pitcher. Tommy also won a catcher's glove in addition to appearing on the program.

Winning prizes is nothing new for the 18-year-old youngster, who has won a cocker spaniel pup and other prizes on several quiz programs. In addition to being plenty quick with the questions and answers, Tommy is a real baseball fan. Jack Darr, anchorman for Crowe's Insurance, and one of the big guns in the Delaware Valley Bowling League during the campaign just completed, is reportedly ready to accept a position out of town in the near future. Jack has been one of the outstanding bowlers in Monroe County and neighboring areas in recent years.

Tickets for Monday's Variety "S" all-sports banquet at the Penn-Stroud Hotel are reportedly moving slowly, but will probably be gobbled up in the usual week-end rush. The affair is slated for Monday and will feature Max Parkin, billed as the funniest man in baseball. Harry Ohlitz, colorful golf pro at Shawnee-on-Delaware, will be the guestmaster. Harry will have many friends in the audience and it will be great to see the likeable authority on golf back in the area. Tannersville, an entry in the Pocono Mountains Baseball League, and the Monroe County Softball League, are publishing programs this season.

George Ockershausen, head baseball and wrestling coach and assistant football member at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, attended a meeting of the American Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation in New York yesterday.

Nazareth Decisions Bangor

Agnew Holds Edge Over Raph, 3-1

Bangor — Bangor High dropped its initial baseball game of the infant campaign yesterday, when Bill Agnew pitched Nazareth to a 3-1 nod over the Slaters, here on the winning contingent's home field. It was a non-league encounter.

Nazareth touched Larry Raph, junior southpaw, for one run in each of the first three innings and made the advantage stand up in the late innings, as each hurler limited the opposition to five safeties.

Don Keat, Bangor first baseman, drove the only run for the Slaters across the plate in the second frame, enabling the visiting nine to hold a brief 1-1 deadlock.

Singles—Agnew fanned four Bangor hitters and didn't pass a single batter. Raph came up with seven strikeouts and allowed two free passes to first base.

Bangor opens the Lehigh-Northampton League season on Friday by playing Coplay, at Coplay.

ESSTC Seeks Third Favorable Baseball Verdict Of Young Campaign Against Rider College

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will go in search of its third baseball victory of the current campaign today, when the Warriors square off against Rider College, in Trenton. The game is slated to take place at 2:30 p. m.

The Warriors opened the present campaign with a 6-5 victory over Trenton and followed with a 11-3 decision over Wilkes College, prior to the Easter vacation. Coach George Ockershausen said last night that he would start Jim Passaro on the mound today, for the second time this season. Passaro hurled the 9-5 nod over Trenton.

The ESSTC baseball coach also pointed out that the remainder of the lineup would be the same as the one that held the fort in the first two trips to the field. This means Don Bachtel will handle the catching chores, while hard hitting Bob Hartman holds down first base; Charley Shaw, second base; Lyle Krall, shortstop; Carmen Martucci, third base; Art Schaare, left field; Norman Antoine, center field and Byrd Stoudt, right field.

Relief pitching chores, if necessary, will probably be handled by either Tom Foley or Ray Kase-man, the same pair that combined to stop Wilkes without trouble.

Ockershausen will be shooting for his initial win over Rider since taking over the baseball duties on Normal Hill.

The team departs at 9 a. m. today.

ESSTC makes its fourth baseball appearance of the season on Saturday, when Fairleigh-Dickinson College invades the Normal Hill field at 2 p. m.

Warriors Meet Rider In Tennis Match

East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will send its men tennis team into action for the first time this season today, when the charges of Coach Frank Grimm tangle with Rider College, at Trenton.

The match is scheduled to begin at 1:30 p. m.

Grimm announced last night that Don Toth, only holdover letterman from last season, will handle the number one singles assignment.

Other singles assignments will go to Lee Hill, Earl Pfeiffer, Tom Roth, Bill Booth and Bob Durkin in that order.

The doubles teams will consist of Toth and Hill, Pfeiffer and Booth and Roth and Mike Soltys.

ESSTC will return to the wars on Saturday, when the Warriors play host to Brooklyn Poly, on the Normal Hill courts.

Bowling Banquet
Record Major League legions will hold their annual banquet at Penn Hills Lodge today at 7 p. m. Community Bar will receive The Daily Record trophy emblematic of the 1953-1954 championship.

Analomink To Plan For Supper

Analomink's baseball team, an entry in the Pocono Mountains League, will make final plans for its annual ham and oyster supper tonight, during the course of a business meeting at the home of Manager Al Kasper, 161 Analomink St., East Stroudsburg.

The meeting is scheduled to take place at 7 p. m., and all players and their wives are asked to attend.

Cover Cost
Analomink will use the funds obtained from the annual supper to defray the cost of operation during the coming campaign.

The supper will be held at the Analomink POS of A Hall on Saturday, from 5 to 8 p. m. Admission for the affair is $1.50 per person.

Transportation will be supplied to those without a means of traveling to the supper. Anyone wishing transportation is asked to contact members of the club prior to the dinner hours.

Softball Drill
Al Besoecker's Diner softball team will practice at Gordon Giffels field today, at 6 p. m.

Giants Defeat Pirates, 6-2

By Jack Hand

New York (AP)—Johnny Antonelli, the left-handed starter the New York Giants got in the Bobby Thomson deal, stood at a shaky start to down Pittsburgh yesterday 6-2, allowing eight singles.

Winning his first game for the Giants after a shutout defeat in a rain-shortened game in Philadelphia, Antonelli closed strong. The 24-year-old pitcher walked six men, all in the first three innings, and struck out seven.

Lockman's single scoring Monte Irvin broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth but the Giants unloaded on rookie Nelson King, a six-foot-six inch slammer, for five hits and three runs in the eighth.

Singles by Irvin, "Hank" Thompson and pinch-hitter Don Mueller loaded the bases. Sacrifice flies by Lockman and Katt drove in two. Davey Williams' single, following a base hit by Antonelli, knocked in the final run.

Pittsburgh got to Antonelli for a run in the first on two walks and a single by Hal Price.

After the Giants took the lead with two in the second on two walks, a single by Katt and a balk by La Palme, the Pirates tied the score in the third.

Antonelli almost went to the showers in the third. After walking Bob Skinner and Gail Henley and allowing a single by Frank Thomas to tie the score, he passed Rice, loading the bases.

The left-hander pulled himself together, struck out Shepherd, got Curt Roberts on a foul pop and fanned Gary Allie.

A line drive off the bat of Skinner in the fourth inning almost finished Antonelli. He shook it off and continued although Dr. Anthony Palermo, the Giants team physician, reported Antonelli was badly bruised under the heart.

The Pirates kept pecking away with singles all through the warm, sunny afternoon leaving 11 on base. They had men on first and second with only one out in the fifth but Antonelli retired Thomas on a fly ball and struck out Allie. In the ninth, after he had retired nine men in succession, Antonelli yielded a scratch infield single to Henley, but got Thomas out on a ground ball.

Commission Clears Manager In Baffling 'Ringer' Case

Chicago (AP)—The Illinois Athletic Commission, delving into one of its most baffling "ringer" cases, yesterday cleared fight Manager James Riley of Detroit of any intentional part in passing off a bogus boxer.

The case has been simmering since April 6, when Riley's fighter, known as "Paul Holman" of Allston, Mass., was stopped in the second round by Dick Kerber of Milwaukee at Rainbo Arena.

Story

"Holman" was knocked down a total of five times and his performance was so poor that the commission questioned his true identity. The real Paul Holman is a promising welterweight from the Boston area, who, the commission learned later, was in the Army and reportedly enroute to Japan on April 6.

Riley, who operates a neighborhood gymnasium in Detroit and has a stable of about 35 pro fighters, told the commission yesterday that the impostor may have been a deliberate plant on him.

"I've been made to look like the goat by someone who is out to get me—who, I don't know," Riley testified. "Every time I get a good prospect something always happens to him."

"This fellow in question represented himself to me as Paul Holman of Allston. In boxing workouts he looked good. In Chicago he put on an act—he screamed when Kerber first hit him, spit out his mouthpiece and told the referee he wouldn't fight unless he could pick it up and put it back in his mouth."

Bruton To Miss Several Contests

Milwaukee (AP)—Billy Bruton, hospitalized Milwaukee Braves' outfielder, will be lost to the club until early next week, his personal physician said yesterday.

Infection

Dr. Donald Thatcher said Bruton's temperature had returned to normal after reaching 103 degrees Sunday, but that the Negro centerfielder would remain in Milwaukee Hospital for another 48 hours. Bruton's illness has been diagnosed as a virus infection.

Belt Circuits Decide Races

Bangor—Two of the Slate Belt Bowling Center's 13 leagues completed their seasons last week. Playoffs in the Men's Class "B" League and in the Men's Social League are scheduled to begin this week.

Ship and Shore finished far in front in the 16-team Class "B" League, clinching the title two weeks before the completion of the season. The only threatened competition came from Fiorot Trucking Co., second-place finishers, six points behind the titlist.

Following in third place, some 11 and one-half points behind Fiorot's, was the Slatford Hotel entry and three and one-half points further behind in fourth place, Vince's Auto Supply. These four teams will battle it out for the playoff title.

The titlist, Ship & Shore, also took high team match score for the season with a score of 2763. Capitol Slate Co. had the second high of 2744. Third-place Vince's Auto Supply had the high single game for a team for the season with 1012 and Miller Auto Co. had 975.

Top Kegler

Individual honors were garnered mostly by Alfred Dally, rolling for Daily Slate Co. Dally had the individual high triple for the season of 680, the second-high single game score of 256, and finished in a tie for second in averages with a 175 average. Art Kromer finished second for the individual high triple prize with 644 and Roy Albert had the single game high for the season of 261. Billy Harrington finished with the best average of 179 followed by John T. Dally and Alfred Dally, both with 175.

Greeco's Cafe team emerged as the champions of the Men's Social League three and one-half points in front of the second-place Bangor Mills, Inc. Slate Belt Dairies, Blue Valley Food Market and Wagner's Tire Service followed in third, fourth and fifth places. In an unusual by-law of the league, the second, third, fourth and fifth place teams will roll in the playoffs. The champions, Greeco's Cafe, will not compete. These teams will start their roll-off series this week also.

Ceara's Diner, sixth-place finisher, won the team honors for the season with their high match of 2736 and high game of 987.

Individual honors went to the league secretary, Felix Tiburzi, who had the high average for the season of 166; the second-highest triple game of 628 and shared the single high game with Ray Dolinger, 255. Ray Bush rolled the high individual triple for the season with his 645. Following Tiburzi in the average race were Jim Miller with 164, Pete Noll with 164 and Dick Branda with 163.

DeMar Runs Real Marathon

Boston (AP)—Clarence H. De Mar went to bed yesterday, for the first time since Sunday.

Belying his 66 years, he has since Sunday done two days' work, competed in the Boston A. A. Marathon, tended his flock of chickens and milked two cows.

De Mar, the marathoner's marathoner, ran the rugged 26 miles, 385 yards course for the 33rd time Monday and yesterday promised "I'll run next year."

Seven Wins

De Mar has won the race seven times, more than any other competitor.

After finishing 78th Monday in three hours, 58 minutes, De Mar rested a bit at race headquarters and then reported for work at the Boston Herald composing room. He stood at his compositor's bench from 10 p. m. to 6 a. m.

Your Horoscope Today

By FRANCIS DRAKE

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 21, 1954

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Scrutinize outlook with a view to possible emergencies. You can concentrate on essentials and still make time for new and unexpected matters. Some fresh benefits after 4 p. m.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Right principles permit you more choice, choice, time up your attitude—regardless of the others. Be firm in avoidance of questionable schemes, mind interference in your activities.

May 21 to June 20 (Gemini)—Happy events possible—maybe in romance, marriage; in other personal affairs you could build great satisfaction. Be protective of all benefits and favors.

June 21 to July 20 (Cancer)—With shrewd tact and a rightly conciliatory attitude at home and in business you can expect many happy moments. Avoid being over-sensitive; it hinders reason, prevents broader understanding.

July 21 to August 20 (Leo)—Vibrant influences now should bring you satisfaction to considerable fruition. The sort of day when it would be wise to pursue small everyday gains to insure greater success.

August 21 to September 20 (Virgo)—Today's vibrations favor your natural talents and give you a wider scope of welfare activities—advance with careful, studious revisions. Your perception, intuition should help now.

October 21 to November 20 (Scorpio)—No indefinite rules now! Conform to those laid down by due authority. Not many hindrances today so you can have a good day if you would. Well-managed efforts can bring gains.

November 21 to December 20 (Sagittarius)—Limitations, if any, will be most likely in financial matters. These should be astutely ignored. Sum up your obligations, sound your capacities, then work forward.

December 21 to January 20 (Capricorn)—Though we often favor the flourish of life, remember life's substantial things that count. You can have both, but appreciate first things first.

January 21 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Don't be too exacting. You love liberty; work to protect it. Don't demand your own way, but it can be had by gentle persuasion. Stand by decisions you know are best.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Use your discernment to good advantage this mixed day. Be alert to outside influences and don't permit the wrong ones to sway you. Use care in signing agreements, in spending.

YOU BORN TODAY have a pleasing manner and personality. You are a gentle thing in life. Men and women of the Quaker Deliberation of children, animals, music, the fine arts. You can be obdurate and persistent, but are also natural peacemakers, assistants, cooperative co-workers or straightforward leaders. You may have a strong desire for a strict watch on life luxuriously, perhaps beyond income; also be careful with whom you make friends. Birthdate of: Hippolyte A. Taine, noted Fr. critic, historian.

Several Positions In Doubt As Bangor Keglers End Season

Bangor—The Men's Class "A" League of the Slate Belt Bowling Center will complete its season this week and the Ladies Class "A" League will wind up its season next Monday.

B & B Appliances in the men's league has already clinched the title and this week's matches will feature a rolloff for position in the playoffs.

Star Dollar, tied for second place with Ronco's Nash, will face B & B Appliances, and Ronco's will face the fourth-place American Legion team.

The highlight of the season has really been the rise of the Star Dollar team—coming from out of seventh place a little more than two months ago to put on a spurt and threaten to finish in the runner-up spot. The playoffs between the first four teams will commence next week.

Individuals

There also promises to be a battle between individuals for the average title this week. Les Henning is currently leading with an average of 186-55 and Vern Parsons follows closely with a 185-67 average. This title will also probably be determined in this week's matches.

Henning, bowling for B & B Appliances, will be facing his rival, Parsons, who rolls for Star Dollar, in one of the important matches of the week.

The B & B Appliances entry in the ladies league has not quite clinched the title for that circuit but, with two matches to roll, seem to be a "shoo-in" as it is seven points out in front. It may clinch the championship this week.

There is a four-team battle for the remaining three places in the playoffs. Six points separate the second, third, fourth and fifth place teams—currently, Flory Milling, Regal & Blum, Parsons Slate Co., and Well Made Novelty Co. are in the thick of that battle.

Birdie Dally seems assured of garnering the individual average title. She has an average of 164-61 and her nearest competitor is Kitty Henning with an average of 154-66.

No Age Set For Rookies

St. Petersburg, Fla. (AP)—The St. Petersburg Saints of the class "B" Florida International League have signed 65-year-old Charley Rascher to a rookie contract.

Rascher, who played for the University of Illinois in 1912, has not had any professional playing experience but has been a coach for Saints' Manager Rudy Laskowski.

Wood Proud Of Harmony GOP Slate

Coudersport, Pa. (AP)—Lt. Gov. Lloyd H. Wood told a group of Republican party leaders yesterday that "good government is the best politics and that's what I'm proposing if nominated and elected."

The GOP organization candidate for governor in the May 18 primary told chairmen and vice chairmen of six north central counties that he was proud to be the "harmony" candidate.

"I feel that I am qualified for the job I seek but I don't feel that I'm a man of destiny with all the answers locked up in Norristown."

Wood, a Montgomery County farmer, said that the record shows the Republican state administration didn't waste money but never was stingy in providing necessary institutional care for Pennsylvanians. He maintained that the record refutes all allegations that the Republican party did not spend state money on a sound basis.

Wood spoke at a luncheon and then at a meeting for followers from Potter, McKean, Clinton, Elk, Cameron and Tioga counties.

With him were five of the party's six candidates for statewide office, Frank F. Truscott, Mrs. Gaynelle M. Dixon, Judge George W. Griffith and Ralph T. Bell. Absent while sitting in Pittsburgh was Judge Robert E. Woodside, candidate for state Superior Court.

All were introduced by Otto F. Messner, primary GOP campaign manager, who said the slate would bring added strength to the party. The group is on the second day of a week long tour through the state to meet with leaders in 59 of the 67 counties.

Host at the luncheon meeting was John W. Chamberlin, Potter County chairman. Others present included State Sen. James S. Berger (Potter), and State Reps. Albert Johnson (McKean), Wrayburn E. Hall (Potter), and Edwin W. Tompkins (Cameron), all Republicans.

Today the group lunches at Lewisburg and meets at Altoona in the evening.

People Should Be Told Truth About Far East

Chicago (AP)—Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass.) last night asserted "the American people should be told the truth about the situation in the Far East."

He also said that recent statements by high administration officials about the crisis in Indochina could be taken to mean "we are about to enter the jungle and do battle with the tiger."

Sen. Douglas (D-Ill.) agreed that affairs had taken a serious turn abroad. He also predicted victory for himself and fellow Democrats in Illinois in the November election on a program tailored for the "individual man."

The two senators were the featured speakers at a $100-a-plate fund raising dinner sponsored by Cook County (Chicago) Democrats. "The deterioration of the French position in Indochina has caused the United States to be faced with decisions both somber and complex, on which hang the future of the free world," Kennedy set forth in his prepared speech.

"For if Secretary Dulles' and Vice President Nixon's words are to be taken at their face value, we are about to enter the jungle and do battle with the tiger."

Kennedy said he didn't want to make President Eisenhower's task "more difficult," and added:

"But I do believe it both proper and necessary that those who bear responsibility should indicate in advance the course of action that should be adopted."

He also stated: "It is my belief that the American people should be told the truth about the situation in the Far East. This has not been done."

Douglas, who received about 600,000 votes in last week's Illinois primary although he had no opposition, will face the Republican nominee, Joseph T. Meek, in the fall battle for the Senate seat Douglas now holds. Douglas told his fellow Democrats:

"We meet in an atmosphere redolent of victory. The prospect of millions of Texas oil dollars against us cannot discourage a cause that is righteous." He made no further reference to "Texas oil dollars" in his prepared text, but went on:

"We have a program for the individual man. A program to advance his prosperity, reduce his taxes, give him re-employment, protect his civil rights, guarantee him fair employment opportunities, insure him prosperity on the farm and in his home, and advance ever higher his standard of living."

at Stroudsburg and aggravate the problem even more.

The group told Fine they believed any money spent on a Ninth-and-Main St. route would be wasted and that it was opposed by masses of local people and organizations. Instead, the somewhat more expensive but widely approved Godfrey's Ridge lower level route was suggested.

Fine said money should not be the only consideration, but that use should be a consideration.

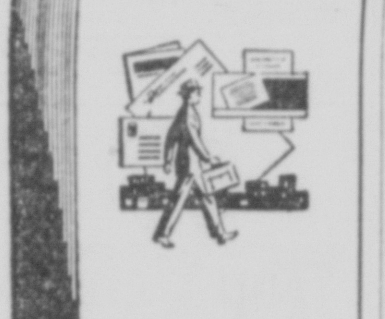

"It's no use to spend money if it would not benefit the public in the future," he added.

Fine went on to mention thruways at Avoca, Allentown and Chester where highways have been constructed to move outside rather than through the cities. This, he said, "is the modern thing to do."

The governor went over the lower-level Godfrey's Ridge plan with Engineer Hess, scrutinizing it carefully.

He said aloud it "would mean less property damage than going through town."

The plan, maps and survey were left with the governor.

Leader Has Support Of All But One County Chairman In Gubernatorial Race

Harrisburg (AP)—Patrick E. Kerwin, Democratic primary campaign chairman, said yesterday that Sen. George M. Leader has the support of all but one of Pennsylvania's Democratic county chairmen in seeking his party's nomination for governor.

Kerwin said 66 of the county chairmen have agreed to serve with him as members of the primary campaign committee.

The chairmen did not disclose the name of the lone holdout against support of Leader, organization-backed candidate for governor, but said the county leader is not opposed to George M. Leader but has merely decided to remain "neutral."

Leader is opposed for the nomination in the May 18 primary election by Allegheny County Coroner William D. McClelland and Charles J. Schmitt, Erie County realtor.

Leader, who conferred with Columbia County leaders yesterday met with leaders of northeastern Pennsylvania counties last night at Scranton.

The candidate travels to Northampton County tomorrow, winding up the day as guest at the 50th anniversary dinner of the Democratic Jacksonian Assn. at Easton.

Thursday Leader will speak at Washingtonville, Montour County.

Kerwin announced also that David V. Randall, Lykens, will serve as treasurer for the Democratic primary campaign committee.

Randall, a coal company executive, was the Democratic congressional candidate for the Dauphin-Lebanon-Juniata-Perry district in 1952.
